OUT OF THE GLOOM

Many a Gloomy Countenance in Norway
Now Lightens With Happiness
A bad back makes you gloomy.
Can't be happy with continual back ache.
The aches and pains of a bad back are frequently due to weak kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended for weak kidneys. Ask your neighbor.
So Norway citizens testify.

Mrs. Orville Palmer, Lower Main St., Norway, says: "I was suffering from disordered kidneys. My back was painful and it made me restless at night. I was dizzy and everything seemed to turn around in the room. My kidneys didn't act regularly. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used in the family with benefit so I decided to go to Clark's Drug Store and get a supply. After using two boxes, I was all right, so I gladly recommend Doan's."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply

A good road begins to wear out from the first instant it is used. It needs constant attention and repair. Little breaks in the road, if repaired now, mean a great saving, whereas if they are left they become large breaks, which mean an enormous expense in the future.

Most road officials are competent, and want to repair the road. A few are indifferent, once the road is built. But no official is either neglectful or of indifferent to the great force of public opinion.

Boys and girls who travel over the new road, can help. Watch the road. Look out for the bad places. Keep your eyes open for the spot where the surface has "raveled" or worn off, showing the basic rock beneath. Look out for the uneven ridge, the "waving" which sometimes occurs in oiled roads. As soon as you see any such spot, note carefully exactly where it is, so that you can describe the location accurately on paper. Then write a letter to the road official who has charge of that stretch of road, and tell him about it.

You may think that a State road official will not pay any attention to your letter. If he is the right kind of a road official—and most of them are such—he will not only pay attention to it, but will write and thank you for your good citizenship.
Our road officials are normally hard working, intelligent men, who want to repair the road and keep it in condition.

If he is glad to get your letter, he will reply the road at once. If he happens not to be the right kind of a man, if he isn't competent, write to him again.

Get John and George and Jack and Alice and Gertrude and Mary to write to him. If he still doesn't pay any attention to it, come to this newspaper, ask for the Editor and tell him about the raveled place. Tell him that you have written the road official—tell him how many times, and the names of all your companions who also wrote. A good newspaper editor has use for such news.
He will write the road official himself, and if that individual still doesn't do his duty, this newspaper will publish the facts of the raveled place and that the road official was repeatedly told of it.
The way that road official will then make speed on repairing that raveled place will be funny!

GOVERNMENT HAS EXPERT ROAD
BUILDERS

The administration of the Federal Aid road acts are in the hands of the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, on which organization devolves the enormous responsibility of seeing that the millions of Uncle Sam's money for aid in state road programs, are wisely spent upon needed roads, that the states contribute their proper proportion of the cost of such roads, and that the roads are properly built from an engineering standpoint.

This organization, which started as a small office attached to the Department of Agriculture, has grown to the status and dignity of a bureau, housed in a building by itself, and with a large and competent force of road experts. These not only look after the clerical details of the work, and superintend the engineering features,
but in addition do a great deal of educational work, and maintain one of the best equipped and most scientific of testing laboratories for road materials in existence.

The experimental work of the bureau has been of the highest value to roadmakers everywhere; not only the laboratory work, but the actual construction and testing of stretches of road of all kinds,
in all climates, and in many locations.
The outdoor tests of the speeds of automobiles with reference to the amount of dust raised and damage done to water-bond roads are classic in the industry, and bureau information of the effect of impact loads upon roads, worked out according to drop of wheel, weight of load, and size of wheel, were fundamental in road construction.

The enormous road mileage built and building, with the aid of the Federal Government, is a series of monuments to the ability, foresight, wise planning, and able administration of this bureau of the Department of Agriculture.

Are You one of the 800 to Cook your Dinner ELECTRICALLY

This Thanksgiving over 800 families in Central Maine Power Company Territory will cook their dinner electrically.

More and more are modern housewives realizing the advantages of the electric range. Not only is it much more easier and convenient because there is no coal or wood to bother with, no kindlings and dirt to clutter the kitchen but better cooked food that is more healthful and appetizing is a superiority of the electric range that women appreciate.

The electric range is always ready; just the turn of a switch "builds" the fire to any desired heat.
Then long after the switch has been turned "off"
the food will continue to cook from the stored heat.

These advantages together with our special low rates for electric cooking make cooking by electricity 1-3 CHEAPER THAN ANY OTHER METHOD.

OXFORD COUNTY POTATOES
Among the good things in the Oxford County Farm Bureau News are the following items in regard to potato yield from certified seed:

"A very interesting report on potato yields comes from E. G. Knapp, Roxbury. He planted two rows of certified seed in the center of the potato plot planted from his own seed. At digging time he carefully weighed the potatoes from both seeds and carefully figured the yields per acre of each. His own seed yielded at the rate of 267.7 bushels of marketable tubers, while the certified seed yielded 407.2 bu. of marketable tubers, or a difference of 139.5 bu. per acre in favor of certified seed. This is one of the most accurate tests ever reported."

"The largest yields from one bushel of seed planted have been reported—E. A. Barker, Bethel, 37 bushels, and E. S. Barrett, Sumner, 36 bushels. In each case the seed was planted tuber unit."

"A. G. Hayes, Oxford and E. S. Barrett, Sumner have reported the largest yields of potatoes for an area of an acre or more. Mr. Hayes raised 423 bushels from one acre and Mr. Barrett 682 bu. from 1.3 acres."

"Six East Bethel club members raised 237 bu. of saleable potatoes. Each had a one-eighth acre plot, or three-fourths acres for the whole club. The highest yield was secured by David Foster who raised 52 bu. from his one-eighth acre."

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Gained Strength, Weight and Now Doing Own Work, by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work."

I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband about his wife and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."

Wm. Eldridge, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

A record of nearly fifty years service should convince you of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Two Facts to Remember

In the maintaining of constant voltage, the properly built storage battery has two big advantages. One of these is that the voltage drop is comparatively very slow, so that a considerable period passes before there is noticeable weakness. The other is that the moment the battery begins to show signs of weakness, it can be recharged, either with your own rectifier attached to an electric lamp socket, or, at little expense, by a battery service station.

In fact, the right way to use a radio storage battery is to take full advantage of this recharging feature by always keeping the battery well charged, and not waiting for any indications of loss of voltage.

STORY OF BY-GONE DAYS

Twenty-Six Years Ago

Will E. Austin came near being electrocuted at the Norway Water Co. pumping station while making repairs there. A pair of chain tongs came in contact with a live wire and Austin was unable to let go. Tim Heath and Bill Sheffield broke the connections, assisted the victim to the floor, some 12 feet below his location.

C. J. L. Hathaway has installed electric lights in his lumber and glazing rooms. Arthur Hebbard is working over time on glass setting to keep up with the rush.

The drama "Triss" was played by local talent at the Opera House. Chas. Tremaine, formerly stage manager with the Lillian Tucker Co., staged the show. The cast included Mrs. Effie Akers, Lora Chapman, Dr. Annette Bennett, Mamie Stetson, Charles S. Akers, Albert D. Park, Frank Kimball, Ralph I. Trask, William E. Francis and Charles Tremaine. The play was a success.

Owen P. Brooks has bought the Locke store, next the high school lot. He will live up stairs and carry on a grocery business.

The Otisfield Congregational Church observed its centennial, Tuesday. According to the historical paper presented by Estelle Knight, the meeting house was built by the wealthy Boston proprietors assisted by the townspeople. At the dedication in 1797, rum and whiskey were the refreshments, followed by a dedication ball in the evening. Clergy men not wishing to dance passed the time with a quiet game of cards in a neighbor's parlor. The first pastor, Rev. Charles Robie, was familiar with intoxicating liquors, and frequently had trouble ascending the pulpit steps. He was suspended by a council after a pastorate of thirteen years. Worthy pastors followed and the church increased in membership and influence over a wide territory. A hurricane in 1836 partly demolished the meeting house. The second story was moved away and is used as a town house, but the first floor timbers went into the present structure.

Pennesseewassee Lodge K. of P. held their fourteenth annual ball Thanksgiving evening. Fifty couples attended. Stearns & Norseworthy's Orchestra furnished music. Landlord John Woodman served an oyster supper at the Beals Hotel during intermission.

SOUTH PARIS

Albert Russ Whitman
Albert R. Whitman died at his home, Pine Street, South Paris, Thursday evening, Nov. 22. He had been in failing health for two years, but was confined to his bed but three days. His age was 68 years lacking four days. He was the son of Chaney and Lucy Ann (Perham) Whitman and was born at Woodstock Nov. 26, 1855. His mother was an own cousin to Governor Sidney Perham. Mr. Whitman, when 6 years of age, moved with his family to Norway where he attended school. He was one of four children: Thomas Whitman, who died 10 years ago; Oscar Whitman, who died about 30 years ago at Boston. Both of his brothers served in the Civil War. One child died in infancy.

In 1879 Mr. Whitman was united in marriage with Miss Fredricka Chaffin of Sumner. To them were born two children, Clarence A. Whitman, a machinist at Portland, and Lula M., wife of Edward Taylor, who lives at Oxford, and there is an adopted daughter, Mrs. Sanger Maxim, who lives at South Paris.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitman moved to South Paris from their farm at Oxford three weeks ago, owing to Mr. Whitman's illness.

He worked for many years at the Norway Shoe Shop and 31 years ago bought a farm at Oxford. He has been a member of Frederick Robie Grange several years, but at the time of his death was a member of Paris Grange.

He is survived by his wife, his children and six grandchildren; Alfred W. Tyler, Cecil A. Tyler, and Elbert Tyler, and Louise Maxim, Sylvia Maxim and Celia Maxim.

FARM AND CITY

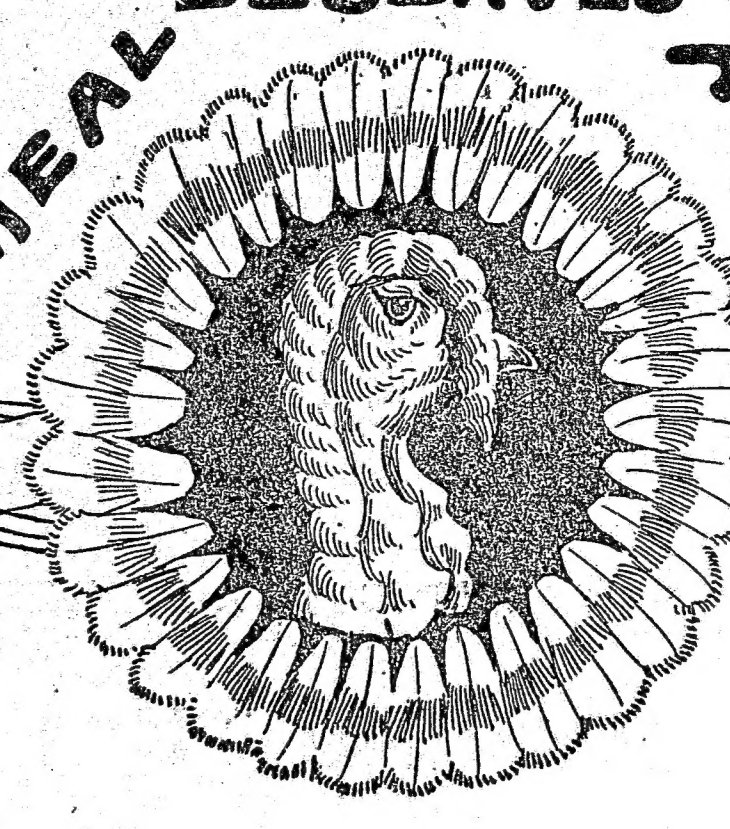

In an age when so many people see only the hole in the doughnut it is refreshing to note the other attitude. In comparing country and city life we are too prone to compare the farms disadvantages with the city's advantages, too likely to overlook the city's disadvantages and the farm's advantages.

For Maine farm homes would rent for less than $100 a month in any of America's larger cities and the farm on Maine farm tables cannot be matched outside of the homes of the very wealthy. It is our belief—and we have figures to support it—that the average farm family spends as much for clothing, food, fuel, for church, as the average city family. The recipe for more "advantages" on the farm is the same as in the city, hard work, head work and judgment in spending. It is just as easy to find happiness on the farm as in the city—and no harder to find unhappiness. But the farm in farm or city will happiness be found by riveting our gaze on the dark side of the picture.

Mrs. Housewife:

Can you tell a good cook at sight? Or would you want to look over her recipes and sample some of her cooking?

A single glance at AEROBELL will cause you to remark, "Well, that looks like a REAL Washing Machine."

We will show you in detail just how, by suction and pressure, AEROBELL forces the hot soapy water back and forth through the fabric until the soil is entirely removed and the clothes become clean.

And then, because the "proof of the pudding is in the eating," we will gladly demonstrate AEROBELL by doing a heavy week's washing, either at your home or in our store.

AEROBELL is a remarkable washer. It looks good and performs as well as it looks. Because of its strength, beauty, simplicity and excellent construction, AEROBELL is becoming more popular every day.

Why not call on us soon, so that we may have the opportunity of demonstrating AEROBELL to you either here or at your home?

RADIO RECEIVING SETS

By Harry F. Dart, E. E.

Article 5. Reflex Set

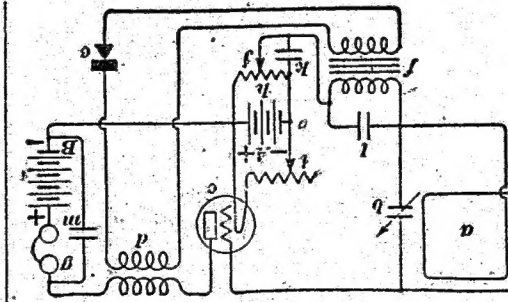

The reflex set is so named because the signals intercepted and amplified by this set are directed back and amplified at a different frequency. The single-tube reflex which is considered here has one three element electron tube which amplifies the signal as it is received at radio frequency, a crystal detector which rectifies the signal to audio frequency, and a set of transformers which feed the energy back through the one tube for further amplification. It is well to realize that such a set cannot be expected to give as good results as would a separate amplifier and detector combination, but on the other hand surprisingly good results are possible considering the small outlay of apparatus. The successful operation of this set often depends upon the relative positions of the component devices. It is very desirable, therefore, to move the parts around (transformers especially) until the operation is best.

One of the most interesting ways to use a reflex set is in connection with a loop as shown in the circuit diagram. The 23 or 43-plate condenser is preferably with a 3-plate vernier, combined with the directional feature of the loop provides the necessary tuning, which though simple still gives good selectivity. The simple high-vacuum tube is nearest to the antenna as elsewhere, it is well to remember that for maximum signal strength and life the storage battery tubes are preferable, but excellent results may be obtained on the standard dry-cell tubes.

The energy (or signal) is amplified in the tube at radio frequency just as though the tube and its accessories were a separate radio frequency amplifier. The energy then passes through the primary of the radio frequency transformer and into its secondary coil winding. The circuit of the secondary winding includes a crystal detector e by means of which the signal is rectified, and the primary of the audio-frequency transformer f. From the secondary of the transformer f the audio-frequency signal is impressed on a grid circuit where it is further amplified by the tube at audio frequency. This amplification should be quite like that secured by a separate stage of audio-frequency amplification, but it is actually more or less mixed with the radio-frequency amplification. As the radio-frequency transformer d does not appreciably affect an audio-frequency signal, the amplified energy passes through the telephone receiver g to produce audible signals. If the signal is strong enough a loud speaker may be connected in place of the head phones.

The B battery voltage should be moderately high for loud signals, say about 60 to 80 volts. The A battery h and the filament control rheostat i should be suitable for the type of tube used. For an accurate control of the radio-frequency amplification it is well to use a potentiometer j across the A battery with the slider connected to the grid return, which is the wire from the secondary of transformer f. To prevent a useless discharge of the filament battery, and to secure accurate adjustments the potentiometer should have a high resistance, say at least 300 ohms. The potentiometer may be disconnected from the A battery at one end when the set is not in use to prevent discharging the battery slowly. A small fixed condenser k at about .001 microfarad will generally help the operation of the set. Another small-capacity condenser l is connected across the secondary of the audio-frequency transformer f to establish a path for the radio-frequency current in the grid circuit.

Tuning is often done without the crystal detector even adjusted, as there is considerable energy passing through the circuit even without this adjustment. Then when a signal is heard, the crystal is adjusted until a good sensitive point is found. If the various adjustments of the crystal have very little effect on the signal strength it is well to check over the wiring, and to try moving the transformers around a little. It is also important that the primary of the audio-frequency transformer is correctly connected with respect to the secondary of the radio-frequency transformer. A trial with one of the windings reversed through its connections will show the best arrangement. A .01-microfarad condenser connected across the telephone receivers and B battery as shown at m should improve the operation of the set.

HEBRON

Conant-Keene

Alton Conant and Miss Olive Keene were married Saturday afternoon, Nov. 17, at the bridegroom's home. Rev. H. L. Newman of Waterville, former pastor of the Baptist church, performed the ceremony and the double ring service was used. Only the immediate families were present and the house was very prettily decorated.

The bride's wedding dress was white cotton crepe trimmed with silk with the bridal veil, and her traveling suit was brown wool crepe trimmed with sand color. Immediately after the ceremony they left on a week's camping trip and they will make their home with the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Conant this winter.

At the Hebron track try outs several fine runners were discovered. The one individual that showed above all others was "Smoky" Kelleher. Kelleher ran well from the start and finished strong. He did the four miles in twenty-one minutes and ten seconds. Kelleher is an old track man from Massachusetts and held up the honors for his state. Carver, another Massachusetts boy, also ran well. He tied with a Maine fellow for second place.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

PLEASE PASS THE APPLES

When every pool in Eden was a mirror
That unto Eve her dainty charms proclaimed
She went undraped without a single fear, or Thought she need to be ashamed.
'Twas only when she'd eaten of the apple
And found that ever more she'd have to grapple
With the much-debated problem of the nude.
Thereafter she devoted her attention,
Her time, and all her money, to her clothes;
And that was the beginning of convention,
(And modesty as well) I do suppose.
Reaction came about in fashion recent—
Now, girls conceal so little from the men,
That it would seem, in name of all that's decent Someone should pass the apples 'round again!

"THE LOST VOICE"

Seated one day in my home,
Distracted and ill at ease,
I wearily jingled the telephone
And Central said, "Number please!"
I know not what number I gave her,
'Tis vanished beyond recall;
I know I was halbergested,
That she answered the phone at all.
It filled me with sheer amazement,
It thrilled me with fierce delight;
For when she repeated the number,
She actually got it right!
I glued the phone to my ear drum,
And my heart beat hard and fast,
As I said to myself, "Paradise!
I shall get that call at last."
I waited, and waited, and waited;
Once more I seized the hook
Between my thumb and finger,
And shook, and shook, and shook.
But I listened and listened vainly;
The sun had waned and set,
And the stars came out—but Central
Has made no answer yet.
It may be she'll answer sometime—
But I wonder now and then
If only when I'm in heaven
I shall hear that voice again.

AN UNSWEEPERABLE ANSWER
How is this for a "comeback?"

Aunt Jinny, a Carolina negress, was a great advocate of the rod as a help in child-rearing. As a result of an unmerciful beating which she gave her youngest and "corneriest," she was brought into court one day by outraged neighbors.

The judge, after giving her a severe lecture, asked if she had anything to say.

"Jest one thing, Judge," she replied.

"It wants to ax you a question."

"You ever the parient of a perfectly wuthless cullud chile?"

HELP COMBAT DISEASE

Lower Oxford County is to have an active branch of the Maine Public Health Association, according to plans which are now being worked out in connection with the coming annual sale of Christmas seals and health bonds, which will open simultaneously December 1 in all sections of the United States.

Mrs. Irving O. Barrows of South Paris has been named by the Maine Public Health Association as chairman of the branch in Lower Oxford County and with the help of Mrs. Burrows and her associates in the sale it is expected that the results will justify the consummation of plans for a Lower Oxford County branch of the state organization.

With the exception of Oxford County, practically every section of Maine is already actively at work for the improvement of health conditions under the guidance and aided by the many forms of service provided by the Maine Public Health Association.

A good beginning has been made with widespread work of education on tuberculosis, the control of cancer, the training of Oxford County children in habits which promote health and in the use of motion pictures, lectures, exhibits and literature.

With the completion of the Lower Oxford County branch of the M. P. H. A. nursing service will be provided for the smaller country places which can not afford to employ a full time public health nurse, but which will not miss this arrangement—have the part time nursing service enjoyed by other towns in this partnership for health.

In the development of this work much depends upon the success which attends the annual sale of Christmas seals and health bonds. All Oxford County citizens are urged to respond cordially to the invitation from members of Mrs. Barrows committees in the various towns in the south half of the county.

Every letter which is mailed in Oxford County during December should bear one of more of these cheery little health Christmas Seals. Last year it is estimated that 80,000,000 men, women and children in all sections of the United States helped in this fight for health by buying seals and health bonds.

Sarah Dix Hamlin Dead

We recently read an item in the Harvard Hillside, a local paper of Harvard, Mass., that should be of more than passing interest to Oxford County people and to the people of Maine. The Sarah Dix Hamlin had passed away in San Francisco, Cal., at the age of 83. She was the great granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eleazer Hamlin who were the grandparents of our Hannibal Hamlin, vice president with Abraham Lincoln. Miss Hamlin had been in India, where she established a school. She was principal of the Hamlin School in San Francisco, which was widely known. She leaves one sister, Miss Katherine Hamlin, who is the last representative of the Hamlins born in Harvard, Mass., which was the native place of the place of the place of the place, Maine Hamlins.

Mrs. Millard Lord of South Paris was recent guest of Mrs. A. E. K. Grover and her nephew, D. P. Smith.

Bethel Grange held a dance the evening of the 23d, many old fashioned dances were enjoyed, interspersed with modern.

The entertainment given by the grammar school at the William Bingham's gymnasium was a success and much enjoyed.

It has been decided by the several churches to hold a community service once a month at the gymnasium. These little gatherings show that in time we shall not have so many Gods, so many creeds, so many paths that wind and wind, a movement in the right way.

Irving Carver and his aunt, Mrs. Ella Mansfield, are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Thurston, the house was closed but Mr. Thurston opened it to them after he disastrous fire at the Carver home on Broad Street.

Mrs. A. E. K. Grover called on her cousin, W. D. Mills and wife, Friday. Mr. Mills is able to get about quite a little since his severe illness.

The rain is a great benefit as many wells were too low to hold out all winter.

The home of the late Mrs. Agnes Straw has been sold to W. J. Upson and William Bingham, to be used as an annex to Bethel Inn.

It will be Thanksgiving and chautauqua here, but guess the good dinners will not be neglected.

Are YOU Attached to Your Money?

If you are attached to your money and have a firm determination not to be separated from it, you will ask these four questions of anyone who requests you to part with it in return for a security:

1. Is the company which issues the security practically immune from labor troubles inside and out?
2. Is the company liable to competition?
3. Has the company paid dividends through bad times as well as good?
4. Is the company's success dependent on superlative sales ability?

1. Central Maine Power Company is practically immune from labor troubles. Maine has few anyway—hydro-electric companies have less. A company that supplies 148 towns with light and power, including over 400 industrial organizations, is not likely to be troubled much by strikes among its customers.

2. Central Maine Power Company is, of course, entirely without competition.

3. Certainly a company that has unfailingly paid dividends through the past 18 years can be regarded as a seasoned dividend payer.

4. The Company's success is in no way dependent upon sales ability. People do not have to be "sold" power and light. The business would grow rapidly if the Company had no sales force whatever.

It is well to know these points and many others before you invest. We have a new booklet "Under the Microscope" which tells you interesting facts about a security that you should know.

With no obligation on your part whatever, send in the coupon to receive a copy of this booklet.

Silver Wedding

The 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lineas Briggs was celebrated at their home last week, Thursday evening, when about seventy friends and neighbors gathered for a social rejoicing season together. The program consisted of a humorous speech by Rev. H. F. Aldrich and readings as follows:

"Deadening Away the Old Farm"..... Winnie Ridlon
 "The Marriage of a Pair of Shoes"..... Tom Hollis
 "The Life that Touches Linger Shall Never Touch Mine"..... Lila Herrick
 "Betsy and I are Out"..... Jennie Cummings
 "How Betsy and I Made Up"..... Carrie Flavin
 An original anniversary poem was read by Carrie Flavin:

What! married twenty-five years
 And never been divorced?
 Rather an old-fashioned couple
 Out of the usual course.
 Now-a-days they have a new style,
 They try each other a spell
 And if the first partner doesn't suit, Perhaps the next one will
 But for twenty-five long years
 Lila and Nell have lived together,
 Telling through many a weary day
 In fair and sunny weather.
 Shoulder to shoulder you've faced your tasks,
 And worked with a right good will,
 Each one trying to help the other
 As you journey up life's hill.
 Your friends and neighbors have gathered here
 On this Anniversary Day
 To pay our respect and clasp your hands
 In the very heartiest way.
 We believe if all your friends had come
 Your house would have been too small,
 So it's better that only this number came
 To represent them all.
 We wish you long life and happiness,
 And everything that's dear,
 And joy without a fear.
 And when the evening draws nigh
 At the setting of the sun,
 May the Portals swing wide open
 And you hear the words "Well done."

There were musical numbers on the program, among them was a unison solo, "When You and I Were Young, Nell," sung by Ruth Cole and Gladys Aldrich, accompanied by Albert Martin. Refreshments of ice cream and cake followed. There were several silver and other gifts.

James I. Libby
